France won its second World Cup title, defeating Croatia, 4-2, on Sunday. 2

'Les Champions' France downs Croatia, 4-2, to win second-ever World Cup crown

Watch parties for Sunday's Cup final were held citywide.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

For the second time since 1998, France is the World Cup champion after defeating Croatia 4-2 in the Final on Sunday from Luzhniki Stadium in Moscow, Russia.

Les Bleus have a brilliantly-organized defense and the attacking genius of Antoine Griezmann to thank for the title. Griezmann played a major part in both of France's goals, his free kick redirected in off the head of Croatia's Mario Mandzukic before his penalty re-established his side's lead just before halftime following Ivan Perisic's equalizer.

A pair of goals in the second half from Paul Pogba and Kylian Mbappe further secured the title of world champions for the French.

This was France's third-ever appearance at a World Cup Final, all coming in the past 20 years. It is the most of any country during that stretch. Its lone title came in 1998 as hosts before losing to Italy at the 2006 Final in Germany.

That defense was immediately put under pressure as Croatia's exhibition of a high press ensured it saw plenty of the ball in the early stages of the match, a strong start from a country making its first-ever appearance at a World Cup Final. France though countered with all 11 of its players behind the midfield giving Croatia little time to find that final fatal ball near Hugo Lloris' goal.

Just like it did against Belgium though, France came up with an opener through a set piece as Griezmann's free kick from 30 yards out glanced off the head of Mandzukic and past Danijel Subasic in the 18th minute.

It was the first own goal ever scored a World Cup Final.

Croatia found itself in a familiar situation as it was the fourth-consecutive match at this World Cup that it conceded the opening goal.

It answered swiftly as Perisic recorded his fourth goal of the tournament when a trio of Croatian headers fell to the midfielder just outside the French box. After one touch created some space for his thunderous left foot, the Inter Milan man thundered home a strike past the outstretched Lloris to draw things level in the 28th minute.

Video assisted referee allowed France to restore its lead just eight minutes before the break when a review deemed that Perisic handled the ball off a corner. It was Griezmann that came up big again, coolly sending Subasic the other way on his penalty that was tucked into the bottom-left.

Griezmann scoring for France is a good omen as Les Bleus were unbeaten in 20 matches when the Atletico Madrid man scores for them.

The second half evolved into a wave for Croatian pressure as play was constantly housed in the French half. Not only did it have to contend with a staunch French defense while trailing, but also a pitch invasion as three fans ran onto the pitch after a French counter-attack almost resulted in a goal from Mbappe in the 50th minute.

But it was France that doubled its lead as the counter came through in the 59th minute through Pogba, whose first shot was initially blocked at the top box before he sent a left-footed curler past a rooted Subasic.

Five minutes later, Mbappe continued to cement his status as a bona fide star with his fourth goal of the tournament to build France's cushion to three. Mbappe became the first teenager to score in a World Cup Final since Pele in 1958.

That goal turned out to be much-needed in order to keep France's advantage a comfortable one after Lloris gifted Mandzukic with a goal. While fielding a back pass, the nonchalant keeper's pass deflected off the foot of the onrushing Croatian attacker and into the back of his goal in the 69th minute.

Pussy Riot-led protesters invade pitch during World Cup final

The World Cup final between France and Croatia in Moscow was briefly interrupted when three intruders affiliated to anti-Kremlin punk band Pussy Riot ran onto the pitch before being hauled off by stewards.

The pitch invaders, who were dressed in police-style outfits, were later detained by police, one of them told Reuters by telephone from a police station near Moscow's Luzhniki stadium, venue for the match.

Three of Pussy Riot's original members were jailed in 2012 for staging a protest against Russian President Vladimir Putin in a church and the group have since become a symbol of anti-Kremlin direct action.

In the second half of the match, three people wearing white shirts with police-style epaulettes, black trousers and police hats ran out onto the pitch from the area behind the French goal. A fourth person tried to run onto the pitch but was tackled on the sidelines.

The three people were able to run about 50 meters, dispersing in different directions, before stewards wearing high-visibility jackets tackled them to the ground and then dragged them off the pitch.

The match was halted, but resumed about 25 seconds later. A witness at the stadium said he had seen police escorting the pitch invaders out of the stadium grounds.

Olga Kurachyova, a member of Pussy Riot, told Reuters by telephone she was one of the pitch invaders, and was being held at Luzhniki police station, near the stadium. She said she could not talk further because police were trying to take her mobile phone away from her.

Moscow police issued a statement saying that three young women and a young man had been detained after running out on the pitch during the final.

The pitch invasion was the first significant security lapse in the five-week tournament that has won hosts Russia widespread praise for their good organization and efficiency.

In a post on the Pussy Riot Facebook page, the group said the pitch invasion was intended to bring attention to what they said were human rights abuses in Russia. They alluded to Oleg Sentsov, a Ukrainian filmmaker jailed for 20 years in 2015 after being found guilty of setting fire to two offices in Crimea, including one belonging to Russia's ruling party, after Moscow annexed the territory from Ukraine.

In the Facebook post, Pussy Riot said their demands included freeing political prisoners, freedom of speech on the internet, freedom to protest, and allowing political competition.

Photographs of the pitch invasion indicated that the pitch invaders did not include the three Pussy Riot members who were jailed in 2012 for performing in the church. REUTERS

On eve of Russia summit, Trump calls European Union 'a foe'

President Donald Trump meets with Russian President Vladimir Putin today in Helsinki. GETTY IMAGES

"I think the European Union is a foe, what they do to us in trade."

Donald Trump

The meeting comes days after 12 Russians were charged for hacking Dems.

On the eve of his meeting with Russia's Vladimir Putin, President Donald Trump rattled allies once more by labeling the European Union a "foe" with regard to trade.

In a pre-summit interview with CBS News' "Face the Nation" on Sunday, Trump lumped in the EU with China and Russia as U.S. economic adversaries. "I think the European Union is a foe, what they do to us in trade," he said.

Donald Tusk, president of the European Council, replied on Twitter using one of Trump's favorite stock phrases.

"America and the EU are best friends," Tusk wrote. "Whoever says we are foes is spreading fake news."

Trump and Putin will meet on Monday in Helsinki for their first stand-alone meeting since Trump took office in January 2017. Trump departed for Helsinki on Sunday evening after spending the day playing golf at his private club in Scotland.

Trump and his aides have been working through the weekend to soften expectations for tangible results from the meeting.

"I go in with low expectations," Trump told CBS in the same interview. "I'm not going with high expectations."

John Bolton, Trump's national security adviser, said in an interview with ABC's "This Week" that the United States would not be looking for "deliverables" and that the meeting would be "unstructured," beginning with a one-on-one session between the two leaders.

"It isn't a summit," U.S. Ambassador to Russia Jon Huntsman told NBC's "Meet the Press."

"It's a meeting. ... This is an attempt to see if we can defuse and take some of the drama, and quite frankly some of the danger, out of the relationship

The meeting comes just days after 12 Russian intelligence officers were charged by a U.S. federal grand jury for hacking the Democrats ahead of the 2016 election.

With that in mind, a senior House of Representatives Republican told CBS's "Face the Nation" that Trump should ask Putin in Helsinki which airport the Russian hackers will be extradited to for being taken into U.S. custody.

"Tell us where you're going to extradite those folks," said Rep. Trey Gowdy, who chaired a raucous House investigative hearing on Thursday that highlighted bitter, partisan divisions within the U.S. Congress over a probe of Russian election meddling that has clouded Trump's presidency.

The Helsinki summit, which comes at one of the most crucial junctures for the West since the 1991 fall of the Soviet Union, has alarmed some NATO allies who fear Putin might seek a grand deal that undermines the U.S.-led transatlantic alliance.

During last week's NATO summit in Brussels, Trump repeatedly criticized members for failing to spend more on defense and openly questioned the alliance's purpose.

The top Democrat on the Senate Intelligence Committee, Mark Warner, said he was worried about Trump being alone in the room with Putin, without his national-security aides. "We know that Trump doesn't do a lot of prep work for these meetings. He kind of goes in and wings it," Warner said on NBC's "Meet the Press." "I really would feel much better if there were other Americans in the room."

Friday's charges against the 12 Russian officers alleging they hacked Democratic computer networks in 2016 represented the most detailed U.S. accusation yet that Moscow meddled in the election to help Trump.

The life and career of Robin Williams, as told by his long-term manager

The new HBO documentary "Robin Williams: Come Inside My Mind" premieres tonight.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

The death of Robin Williams on Aug. 11, 2014, sent a shockwave of sadness across the world.

Every fan of cinema and television had been impacted by Williams' captivatingly kamikaze comedic routines, which sparkled with an energy and humor that immediately made people fall in love with him. But it wasn't just comedy where Williams excelled, as his dramatic work was just as stellar, too. Lest we forget, he won the 1997 Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor for his performance in "Good Will Hunting."

The upcoming HBO documentary "Robin Williams: Come Inside My Mind" provides a probing and emotional look at the actor and comedian's life and career. We recently chatted with Williams' long-term manager David Steinberg about just that.

As an executive producer, what did you want to achieve with the documentary?

I managed Robin for 40 something years. For the last 30 of those me and him would speak once or twice every day. We would travel together we would work on his comedic material together, we were very, very close personally as well as business wise. I thought that it was really up to me to complete the cycle of my relationship with Robin, and doing the definitive piece on his genius. I told HBO I wanted to explore where that genius came from, because I thought that would be interesting for generations to come. And they agreed. It was important to me that the focus wasn't on the end of Robin's life, but the very creative part of his existence and his contribution to, not just American humor, but international humor.

Talk about Robin's transition from comedy to drama. How involved were you in that?

I know that we discussed the direction of his career. We had a policy of, when he was doing "Mork," we limited his television appearances. He wouldn't really do any others, I think he did a "Tonight Show" every now and then. Let's not forget that Robin was a trained actor at Julliard. He wanted to do more than just comedy films. Robin really enjoyed acting. He loved working.

The new documentary explores the life and legacy of the late comedian and actor. HBO

How did he evolve as a performer then?

Robin was a visitor from another planet. He was dropped in here, and people were privy to the conversations going on in his head, because he had them out loud. People spend their time thinking what they want to say. Robin spent his time saying what he wanted to say. He was very unfiltered. But he really hated ... let me say it this way. Robin had these gloriously twinkling blue eyes and never an ill thought towards anyone. Robin didn't attack people, he attacked stupidity and greed and dishonesty. And what came into his head came out of his mouth, but along the way, he managed to create and bring so much knowledge to it. I have never known anyone as well read as Robin on so many subjects. Never. He could talk about medicine, nuclear medicine, war, politics, injustice, he was as well versed as anyone I have ever known on a variety of topics. It was a remarkable journey that 40 something years I spent with him.

"Robin Williams: Come Inside My Mind" debuts tonight at 8 p.m. on HBO.

The CEO of Tulsa Real Estate Fund tells us how he turned his life around.

patrick.king@metro.us

How do you know that it is time to make a change in your life? Furthermore, even if you are given a sign — has your life veered too far in the wrong direction to ever truly course correct? Jay Morrison, the wildly successful CEO of the Tulsa Real Estate Fund, knows that it is tough beating the odds when the chips are stacked against you because he has to overcome a lifetime of hardships to reach the top.

A three-time felon and high school dropout, Morrison grew up in a poverty stricken household in northern New Jersey filled with looming threats of physical and emotional abuse. He may not have known at a young age how he wanted his life to turn out, but what he did know was that he would do anything to improve his situation. So, at the age of 15, he began to sell drugs on the streets.

"I grew up with an edge and a desire to make it out of my environment," Morrison remembers. "One of the closest things in my environment was the street corners. It's where we saw most guys become successful. You didn't see too many business men from where we were from."

Following down a path into the drug world led Morrison to three different felony arrests and he was eventually sent to prison for three years to life at the age of 18. He was let out on parole after this third arrest and eventually found advice from a mentor, Pastor Antwon Thomas of Plainfield, N.J., who begged him to apply for a job with his wife who was a processor at a mortgage company. Morrison was hired as a loan officer and quickly found success. But it didn't last too long as his first bump in the road in his new-found career sent him back out onto the streets selling drugs.

Breaking the cycle

Morrison was out on the streets early one morning when he finally had an epiphany that changed his life. "Where would I be when I was 30 years old?" he asked himself. All of his life he had looked up to guys on the corner as success stories and he had been born into a longline of drug dealers — including his grandparents and even his mother. But now as a high school dropout and three time felon, that story seemed like one that would never apply to his life.

"My mother sold drugs. I come from that culture and I wanted to believe that one day I could make it in that world. For the first time, I had no more confidence in that plan working out for me," he says. "I asked myself what else can I do? And my challenge was to myself: Are you a hustler, businessman or just a drug dealer? I reflected on what I knew other than drugs and the only other thing I kind of knew and had success in was mortgages and real estate."

After proposing this question, he left the drug game for good to pursue his real estate career. Over the next decade, Morrison has become a success story in the real estate world and is now the CEO of the wildly successful company, The Tulsa Real Estate Fund, which helps everyday people invest money — as low as $600 — into properties that the fund manages and to understand the power of property ownership.

Morrison believes that anyone who has the pure ambition and knack for the hustle can turn their lives around and redirect their hunger just like he did.

"It was all ambition spawned out of my circumstances," he explains. "Drugs was just one vehicle that I chose."

Aside from his burgeoning business, Morrison has also started the Jay Morrison Academy — an online real estate school and mentorship program offering affordable wealth management education — and is a motivational speaker who preaches the virtues of hustling in the real estate world over dealing drugs.

New Painkiller Provides Rapid Arthritis Relief Wherever It Hurts

New cream penetrates the skin in minutes to relieve arthritis pain; uses the strongest approved dose of an anesthetic drug, which numbs the affected joints and tissue.

By David Watson
Associated Health Press

BOSTON – Expectations are high for a new breakthrough in arthritis pain relief. But unlike the majority, it comes in the form of a cream, not a pill. And users say the difference has been extraordinary.

Sold under the brand name Apeaz™, the new pain relief cream numbs the nerves right below the skin.

When applied to an arthritic joint, or a painful area on the body, it delivers immediate relief that lasts for hours and hours.

The powerful painkilling effect is created by the cream's active ingredients, a powerful anesthetic drug.

Anesthetics are highly regarded by physicians and other professionals in the medical community. They block nerve signals from the brain so that patients don't feel pain. They are incredibly effective.

The amazing anesthetic found in Apeaz is the strongest available without a prescription.

The cream form allows users to directly target their pain. It works where it's applied.

"Users can expect to start feeling relief immediately after applying," explains Dr. Henry Esber, creator of Apeaz.

"There will be a pleasant warming sensation that is followed by a cool, which soothing one. This is how you know that the active ingredients have reached the affected joint and tissue."

Works In Minutes

For arthritis sufferers, Apeaz offers impressive advantages over traditional medications. The most remarkable is how quickly it relieves pain.

Apeaz*™ is an FDA drug with approved claims for the pain relief of the following conditions:

- Temporary pain
- Simple back pain
- Strains
- Sprains
- Athletic injuries
- Muscle stiffness and pain
- Wrist, elbow, shoulder, hip, knee, ankle, foot, muscle or joint pain

The cream contains the maximum approved OTC dose of an amazing anesthetic, which penetrates the skin in a matter of minutes to numb the area that's in pain. This relief lasts for several hours.

Published pre-clinical animal studies have shown that the ingredients in Apeaz can also prevent further bone and cartilage destruction.

There are also no negative side effects as seen with oral medications. Apeaz delivers its ingredients through the skin. Oral medications are absorbed in the digestive tract. Over time, the chemicals in pills can tear the delicate lining of the stomach, causing ulcers and bleeding.

There are also tremendous savings when switching over to a topical like Apeaz. When compared to other arthritis medications, Apeaz is a fraction of the cost. At less than $2 a day, the cream quickly is becoming a household name.

Those with terrible arthritis in their hands and fingers, love how easy Apeaz is to open. The jar fits in the palm of the hand, which makes it much easier to use.

Rapid Relief Without a Prescription

Many Apeaz users report significant improvements in daily aches and pain. Many more report increased flexibility, less stiffness, and decreased muscle soreness. They are moving with less pain for the first time in years.

*"I've tried more pills than I can count. I've also had a handful of cortisone shots. Nothing is as effective as this product. With Apeaz, I get relief right away. I rub a little on my hands. It keeps the pain away. It also prevents the pain from getting really bad. It's completely changed my life,"* raves one user.

NEW PAIN RELIEF DRUG WORKS ON CONTACT: Apeaz delivers its active ingredient, a powerful painkiller, through the skin, providing users with rapid relief without drug like side effects.

A New Breakthrough for Arthritis

Apeaz contains the highest, non-prescription OTC dose of a medical drug that fights pain on contact. When applied to the skin it is absorbed in just minutes. It then penetrates through muscle and tissues, getting to the source of your pain, numbing the nerve endings.

"This is why Apeaz is so effective for people with arthritis pain. It reduces pain while adding an additional potential layer of joint support," explains Esber.

A Better Way to Treat Pain

A pre-clinical trial on Apeaz was carried out by Dr. Esber and his research staff shortly after its initial production.

The results were published in the Journal of Immunology.

The study found that Apeaz induced an instant numbing effect, which blocked pain for several hours.

It was also shown to decrease swelling and inflammation.

Even more remarkable, Apeaz was also shown to prevent the further destruction of cartilage, a major cause of arthritis.

"One of the most impressive things about the study was the various ways Apeaz was able to influence levels of pain. Many painkillers, and even creams, simply mask your pain. Apeaz is different. Since it is absorbed through the skin it deliver rapid relief and is able to deliver its ingredients directly to infected arthritic tissue" explains Esber.

A Powerful Weapon for Arthritis and Joint Pain

With daily use, Apeaz helps users live a more vital, pain free relief without any of the negative side effects or interactions associated with oral drugs.

Through the use of a powerful anesthetic drug, Apeaz is able to numb pain at the source, specifically around joints plagued by arthritis.

Readers can now enjoy an entirely new level of comfort that's both safe and affordable. It is also extremely effective, especially if nothing else has worked.

Where to Find Apeaz

In response to America's growing pain pill problem, the company behind Apeaz is offering discounted supplies of their amazing new cream to any sufferer who calls within the next 48 hours.

Discounts will be available starting today at 6:00AM and will automatically be applied to all callers.

Your Toll-Free Hotline number is 1-800-439-7021 and will only be open for the next 48 hours. Only a limited discounted supply of Apeaz is currently available in your region.

APEAZ IS AN FDA OTC COMPLIANT DRUG NDC # 57483-001-04 APPROVED FOR THE RELIEF OF PAIN FROM MUSCLES AND JOINTS INCLUDING ARTHRITIS PAIN. ARTHRIVARX STATEMENTS HAVE NOT BEEN EVALUATED BY THE FDA. ARTHRIVARX IS NOT INTENDED TO DIAGNOSE, TREAT, CURE, OR PREVENT ANY DISEASE AND IS NOT A DRUG. RESULTS MAY VARY.

Who needs a break?

It's unlikely that four days off will cool down this particular Sox team.

MATT BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

It will be commonplace around Boston this week to hear things like, "Man, I hope the All-Star break doesn't cool these guys off!"

And that's fair enough. The Red Sox have been hotter than the steam coming off the grill of The Sausage King on Lansdowne Street these past few weeks as they are 12-2 so far in the month of July. Their 68 wins are the most in baseball — with three more than the Houston Astros, who have the second most. When you consider that not one team in the National League has even gotten to 60 wins yet, you start to realize just how dominant this Red Sox team has been this year. With almost every single meaningful stat, this team is putting up phenomenal numbers. The Sox have a run-differential of plus-160. Only the Astros are better, owning a run-differential of plus-191.

Also, unlike some great Red Sox teams of the past, this group is doing just as well away from Fenway Park as it is at home. The Sox are a sterling 34-17 this season on the road, and are 34-13 at the Fens.

The starting pitching and the pitching out of the bullpen for the Sox this season has been strong, but make no mistake about it. The giant difference between this year and last is that the Sox are mashing the baseball in 2018.

It's crazy to think that just a year ago, the Sox were ranking in the basement in nearly all power categories. JD Martinez has helped that a ton, of course, but even with Martinez removed from the equation the Sox are hammering the ball much better this season. The Sox lead MLB in runs scored with 525. They are second in home runs, behind the Yankees, with 133. They are first in RBIs with 500. And they are third in OBP with a .338 mark.

At this time last year,

The Red Sox have the second best run-differential in baseball at plus-160. In other words, the Sox have scored 160 more runs than they've given up this season.

Mookie Betts had 16 homers. This year he's already at 23 — and that's even having missed a good chunk of late May and early June with a left abdominal strain.

And the steadiness of Xander Bogaerts at the plate this season has been just as crucial for the Sox, as at the All-Star break last season Bogaerts had just six home runs and 42 RBIs. Those numbers have climbed to 16 homers and 64 RBIs at the break this year. The highlight of the first half for Bogaerts came Saturday, when the 25-year-old (it's easy to forget sometimes that the guy is still just 25) belted the Red Sox' first walk off grand slam in extra innings since Jim Rice cracked one on the Fourth of July, 1984.
